Founded in 2000, Dubai Media City (DMC) has grown into a regional hub for media companies.

It is a community where freelancers, SMEs, startups and large companies coexist.

Dubai Media City is a reflection of the vision of His Highness Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, who strived to transform Dubai into a knowledge-based society.

According to his concept, the city was designed as a headquarters for global and local media companies. However, this area contains mainly offices and only a few rental apartments and villas, as it was conceived as a commercial area of Dubai.

Media City is an area with a large concentration of commercial real estate, with most buildings consisting of offices and commercial premises available for rent. Despite this, you can find several apartments and villas here, as well as a wide range of hotel apartments, since it is predominantly a business area.

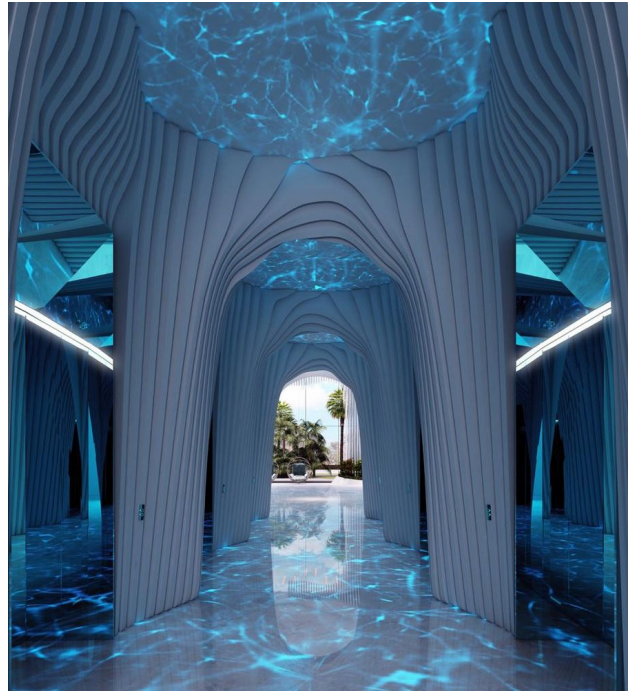

This prime commercial area is home to more than 1,500 companies, including companies in the digital technology, publishing and electronic media sectors. The offices of the BBC, MBC, CNN, Forbes, Sony, Thomson Reuters, ITP Media Group and many others are located here. In addition, Dubai Media City employs more than 20 thousand employees, for whom many restaurants, shops and entertainment centers are within walking distance.
