Campania consists of five provinces: Caserta, Avellino, Salerno, Benevento - the center of winemaking, and Naples - the center of Campania. The region is home to the legendary city of Pompeii and the volcano Vesuvius, as well as many nature reserves and national parks. Among the famous resorts of Campania, Positano, Ravello, and the Sorrento Peninsula should be noted. The islands of Capri and Ischia are also part of the region, and of course the Amalfi Coast, unique in Italy, was listed as a UNESCO heritage site in 1997.
